

Overview

This Chartered Institute of Occupational Safety and Health (IOSH) course, comprising 8 modules, provides an internationally recognised certificate in health and safety for managers and engineers.

Outcomes and benefits

The course concentrates on training the delegates to apply sound management principles to safety and health issues in their day to day activities in the workplace. The course will highlight the application of good management systems in respect of health and safety, as part of a total management control strategy.

Good safety management prevents accidents and helps an organisation meet its legal, moral and business obligations. It also saves cost both directly and indirectly.

Delegates

Directors, Line Managers, Engineers, Supervisors, Health and safety specialists. The number of delegates in one course shall be minimum 10 and maximum 20.

Content

- The importance of Managing Health and Safety
- Understanding responsibilities/legal framework, delegating responsibility and effective management of change
- Identifying and dealing with common hazards within the sector
- Risk assessment and control
- Planning for safety
- Safe systems of work
- Organising for Safety including competence, communications, co-operation and consultation
- Managing contractors
- Monitoring, inspections, observations, auditing, and reporting
- Managing and measuring performance in health and safety
- Managing environmental issues

Venue

As per Client's organization.

Duration

This course comprises 4 days classroom training including an a 22 question, multiple-format assessment paper and a risk assessment based project.

ANAR Eğitim ve Danışmanlık Hizmetleri Ltd.Şti.

Licensed Training Provider For IOSH Working Safely & IOSH Managing Safely